A projecting sign is a great way to increase visibility for a business, especially looking down the street. As with all signs, blade signs should express the unique character and identity of a business. If all the signs are the same shape and size, as shown below, each business will become lost and downtown will be less visually interesting. The examples on this page illustrate how a variety of shapes and brackets will add character and interest to the overall district.